

I understand that the FCC has introduced a new broadcast service known as LPFM which could take over translator stations, such as KLOVE on 88.7 in Midland Texas. Proponents of LPFM feel there is little value in these stations. I respectfully disagree. If value only means money this may be true, but KLOVE serves a more valuable role and important role in providing Christian music to my family and community. Please do not allow this to become a money issue rather than community serve. Thank You.
